Negroes To March On Montgomery to Protest Bombing

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP)—Birmingham Negroes incensed over the bombing deaths of four of their children plan to march on Montgomery to lay directly before Gov. George C. Wallace their feeling that he is to blame for the slayings.

At their first gathering since the Sunday morning dynamite blast, an estimated 1,200 Negroes took a unanimous standing vote Monday night to endorse a march on the state house.

The vote came after three integration leaders called for non-violence and accused Wallace of causing the racial tension that led to the dynamiting of the Sixteenth Street Baptist Church. No date for the march was set.

An afternoon funeral service for Carol Robertson, 14, one of the four girls killed by the blast, was scheduled at St. John's African Methodist Episcopal church.

The Rev. Fred Shuttlesworth told the rally that mass services for the other three victims will be Wednesday afternoon at the Sixth Avenue South Baptist Church—where the rally was held. The three were Denise McNair, 11, and Addie Mae Collins and Cynthia Wesley, both 14.

Negro leaders here and around the nation called for use of more federal power in Birmingham, but a government source in Washington said there was no legal basis to put additional troops in the city now. There are 300 federalized

National Guardsmen on alert here.

Sheriff Melvin Bailey said two white teen-agers were arrested on an open charge in the slaying of one of two Negro boys shot to death a few hours after the dynamite blast.

City police said the other youth was killed when they fired buckshot at fleeing Negroes after a rock-throwing incident.

In Washington, President Kennedy expressed "a deep sense of outrage and grief" over the bombing and called on all Americans to put aside prejudices and to unite in working for justice and peace.

"Words and actions" of Wallace and the segregation system caused the Sunday deaths, Dr. Martin Luther King Jr. said at the rally.

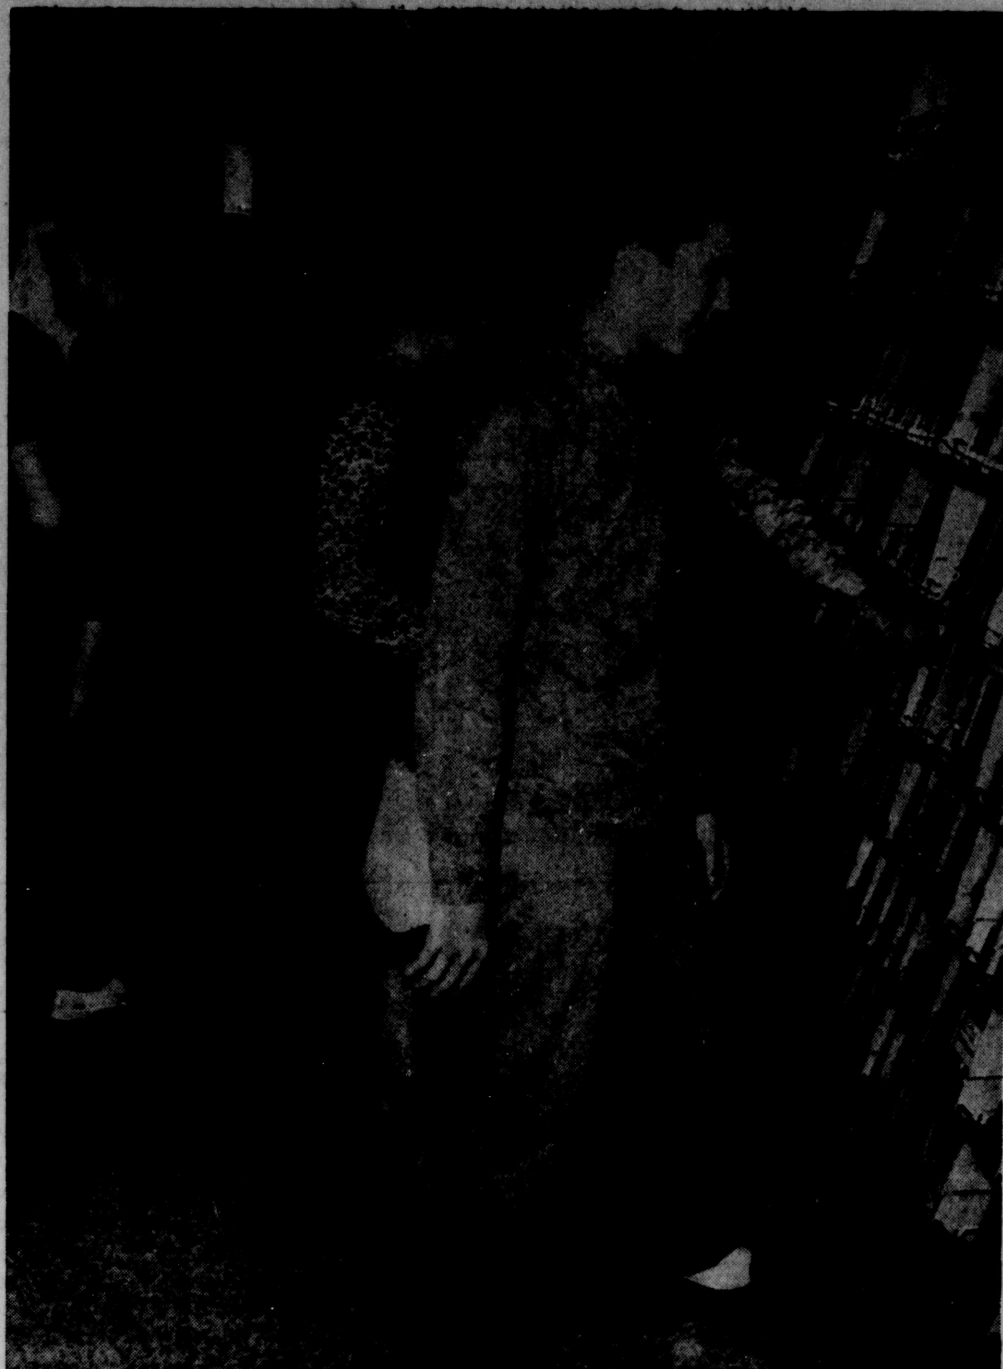

He said Wallace "had allowed himself to defy the law of the land and to deal with Negro citizens in Alabama as if they didn't live in the state."

The governor declined comment on the proposed march on the state capitol and on King's accusation. He had said earlier he deplored the bombing and hoped the perpetrators would be caught.

They have not been caught. Neither have the persons who staged 21 other bombings in the past eight years.

Thurmond Opposes Pact

Symington Favors Test Ban Treaty

WASHINGTON (AP)—The limited nuclear test-ban treaty drew strong support today from Sen. Stuart Symington and strong opposition from Sen. Strom Thurmond.

"Unless there can be some understanding among the growing number of nations that will have the weapon, a nuclear holocaust is only a question of time," declared Symington, a Missouri Democrat.

Symington, a former secretary of the Air Force, said in a prepared Senate speech the treaty banning all but underground testing "will not affect to any appreciable extent our capability to destroy the Soviet Union if a retaliatory strike is required."

On the other side of the debate—which shows indications of continuing into next week—Thurmond, a South Carolina Democrat, charged the treaty constitutes "major risks and jeopardies to the capability of the United States to deter a nuclear war in the future."

The Senate granted unanimous consent Monday to move from debate on the treaty itself to consideration of the resolution of ratification, to which a series of reservations, understandings and interpretations have been offered.

But so many senators remain to speak on the issue that the goal of a final vote by Friday still appeared doubtful.

So far, 77 senators are committed to or inclined to vote for ratification. Thirteen are opposed. Ten are doubtful or undecided. Ratification requires a two-thirds majority of those voting—67 favorable votes if all 100 senators

Four Injured In Road Mishaps

3 Youths Hurt As Car Overturns

Three East Liverpool youths and a Stark County motorist were injured in two of three traffic mishaps investigated Monday afternoon or evening by the Lisbon barracks of the State Highway Patrol.

The injured were: Christopher Graham, 15, of East Liverpool, contusions and concussion and possible fractured left ankle.

Floyd Derrenberger, 16, of East Liverpool, lacerations and abrasions and injured left knee.

Joseph Hercules, 15, of East Liverpool, bruised scalp and abrasions of left side and back.

Dennis Gorman, 19, of Paris (Stark County), multiple contusions and lacerations of the face. Graham and Derrenberger are both in fairly good condition at East Liverpool City Hospital. Hercules was treated there and released. Gorman was taken to Alliance City Hospital where he is in fairly good condition.

The trio of East Liverpool boys were hurt at 3:15 p.m. when their car hit a divider strip on Route 7, about a mile south of East Liverpool, and overturned. Graham, the driver, was cited to Juvenile Court.

Gorman was involved in a collision at 11:30 p.m. on County Rd. 400, about a half mile east of Homeworth with a car operated

Paperback Trailer at Senior High School

Pupils Enthusiastic At Book Offerings

There was everything from "Sweetie Pie" to "Relativity for the Layman."

And if you like, you could buy a small library including choice selections from Ben Johnson Keats, Longfellow, Marvell, Poe, Browning, Shelley, Whitman, Whittier and Wordsworth for the price of about nine milk shakes.

The first wave of Salem Senior High School students to visit the richly stocked paperback book trailer Monday at the school were highly impressed. So were their teachers, some of whom assign paperbacks as supplementary reading.

Seven classes pursued the 1,500 different titles which cover a wide range of subjects and both fiction and non-fiction. The balance of the 841 high school students will visit the store today and Wednesday, with about 20 minutes allowed for each class.

NOT MANY BOOKS were sold Monday, but the pupils are permitted to return to make their purchases in their free moments.

Both teachers and pupils alike feel the big advantage of the paperbacks is their economy.

Many of the books on sale for from 35 to 95 cents (plus a few in the "higher" bracket at $1.25) would cost several times as much if bought under a hardcover at a bookstore.

One 11th grade English section was assigned two paperback novels last year and the response was very enthusiastic, the teacher reported. "They seem to have more desire to study from their own books and feel free to mark passages, which is impossible with a library book," she said.

The students like the books, too, because they handle easily and the book is their very own to use as they please, when and where they want to.

THE BOOK TRAILER HERE is supplied by Ronald A. Bloch of the Mahoning Valley Distributors.

Canada Sells Russia Wheat

$500 Million Deal Biggest In History

WASHINGTON (AP)—U.S. officials see some grains of sunshine in Canada's sale of $500 million worth of wheat to the Soviet Union.

They believe the deal—the biggest commercial wheat transaction in history—will brighten prospects for larger U.S. wheat sales abroad and dramatize Communist farm failures.

Under the agreement announced in Ottawa Monday, Canada will sell Russia 228 million bushels of wheat over the next 10½ months.

Part of the deal involves shipment of $33 million of the wheat directly to Cuba.

Sen. Kenneth Keating, R-N.Y., termed this "a shocking breach" of Western Hemisphere efforts to isolate the Castro regime and called for a strong U.S. protest. Kennedy administration sources indicated, however, that Washington would not lodge a complaint.

Amil Dinsio Indicted by Grand Jury

The Franklin County Grand Jury has indicted Amil A. Dinsio, 27, of Poland on two counts in connection with the Sept. 6 burglary of a Columbus supermarket.

The grand jury Monday charged Dinsio, who also faces criminal indictments in Mahoning County and West Virginia, with burglary and breaking into a safe deposit box.

He is held on $100,000 bond. Bond for Dinsio originally was set at $200,000, the largest ever in Franklin County, but subsequently was cut in half.

Dinsio pleaded innocent at a hearing Sept. 9 before Columbus Municipal Court Judge William T. Gillie.

The Poland man also is under indictment in Hancock County, W. Va., in connection with the theft of coins last March from Gene Costalas of Weirton, W. Va.

The Mahoning County grand jury last November indicted Dinsio and his three brothers, James, William and Vincent, on charges of receiving more than $20,000 worth of stolen property.

Hurricane Cindy Hits Texas With 80 m.p.h. Winds

Says All In Good Condition

Doctor Is Pleased With Quintuplets

ABERDEEN S.D. (AP) — The Fischer quintuplets went into their fourth day today, breathing easily and with reported good color on all of them.

Dr. James Berbos, who brought the four girls and a boy into the world between 1 and 3 a.m. Saturday had termed the first 72 hours crucial. He left St. Luke's Hospital shortly before midnight, apparently satisfied his charges were doing well.

But he warned that the premature quints born to Mrs. Mary Ann Fischer, 30, still could have hurdles, saying "There's no magic number for any danger period. It just depends on their day-to-day condition."

The quints took their first formula Monday—about a teaspoon of artificial milk every two hours—and were reported to be assimilating it well.

At the same time, the babies got their full names and an array of gifts informally assessed at more than $35,000.

Their mother had her first meeting with newsmen since the births, and told three photographers Monday night, "I feel fine."

The photographers, permitted in her room only 10 minutes to shoot still pictures, television tape and movie film on a pool basis, reported Mrs. Fischer very cheerful.

Mrs. Fischer and her husband, Andrew, 38, made the final decision on names for the four girls Monday night.

They will be called Mary Ann, Mary Catherine, Mary Margaret and Mary Magdalene. The lone boy had been named James Andrew earlier.

Mary Ann is named after her mother; Mary Catherine is named for Sister Mary Stephen, the St. Luke's Hospital administrator who was Catherine Davis before she became a nun; Mary Margaret is named for Margaret Dorman, chief nurse in pediatrics at St. Luke's; and Mary Magdalene is named for her paternal grandmother.

The quints were deluged with gifts, ranging from diaper service to college scholarships.

The offers included a four-year scholarship for James Andrew to St. Joseph's College in Philadelphia, scholarships to all five at Northern State College here, and scholarships for all four girls to two girls' schools, Presentation Junior College here and Mount Mary College at Yankton, S.D.

The latter two are operated by orders of Catholic nuns. The Fischers also faced a decision on whether to move to a different home when things settle down.

Their landlords, Mr. and Mrs. Elroy Harrington, offered to give the family the house now occupied, or land for a new home. The Chamber of Commerce promised either to build the Fischers a new home or buy them one. There also was an offer of free labor to build a new home.

Others gave new kitchen and laundry facilities for a new house, free landscaping and free moving service.

The babies received insurance policies, stock certificates and even

Flooding, Much Rain Expected

PORT ARTHUR, Tex. (AP) — Hurricane Cindy slammed over land with her full force at 8 a.m. today after hurling high winds and tides at the Texas and Louisiana coasts all night.

The hurricane's 80-mile-an-hour punch moved in between Galveston and Port Arthur.

About 12,000 persons fled ahead of the winds and abnormal tides, most of them leaving Louisiana's Cameron Parish where more than 300 died in hurricane Audrey in 1957.

Texas coastal residents generally remained calm. Only those living on very low ground fled their homes.

Tides Above Normal

Tides at Port Arthur were expected to go no higher than 5 feet above normal after earlier forecasts of 8 feet. Even at 5 feet, some ground is subject to flooding in this low area.

Galveston's tides reached 5 to 8 feet above normal. But the major portion of the flooding came from heavy rain rather than tides.

The Red Cross counted 1,078 persons it had placed in 13 shelters in Galveston County.

Weathermen predicted that rains as great as 10 inches would fall as a result of the hurricane. Strong winds spread out 100 miles from the eye.

The storm sprang up suddenly in the Gulf of Mexico Monday and did not reach the power of a hurricane until late afternoon.

During the night, Cindy turned slightly to the west after first aiming at Sabine Pass which separates Louisiana and Texas.

At Port Arthur, about 530 persons sought refuge in Edison Junior High School.

Town Sealed Off

The town of Cameron, La., was sealed off as rising tides covered the only highways leading inland. It was in Cameron and surrounding Cameron Parish that more than 500 died in hurricane Audrey in 1957.

The 10,000 residents of the parish moved inland, most to Lake Charles and Sulphur.

At least three persons were missing on boats off the parish.

Twenty-six men, trapped by the sudden forming of the storm, rode out the winds and battering waves on two offshore oil well drilling rigs. Crewmen on one rig reported 30-foot waves and 55 mile-per-hour winds.

Lake Charles Mayor Alfred E. Roberts declared his city in a

Countian Escapes From Prison Farm

An East Liverpool man and a Carroll County companion walked away from the Grafton State Prison Farm near Elyria Monday, authorities report.

Missing are Gary Lee, 19, of East Liverpool and 21-year-old Eugene Stout.

Prison farm authorities said the pair were sent to bring cattle in from the pasture for milking but never returned.

Lee was sentenced Feb. 28 to 1-20 years at the Ohio State Reformatory at Mansfield after pleading guilty to a charge of car theft and asking immediate sentencing. Police arrested him for stealing a car belonging to Marion F. Zelasko of Wellsville Rd. 1.

Stout was sentenced in 1961 for robbery.

Bolton Says Bills Delayed On Purpose

WASHINGTON (AP) — Rep. Oliver P. Bolton, R-Ohio, said today some observers of the congressional scene are certain that many spending proposals by the administration have been purposely delayed until after passage of a tax bill.

"Underlying the suspicion of those who fear we are on the verge of another round of federal pump-priming was the sudden and secret cancellation of congressional hearing two months ago on a multi-billion dollar extension to the accelerated public works program," Bolton said.

"Top administration officials had been summoned to testify in support of the bill when, without explanation, the White House ordered the hearings cancelled."

Bolton quoted former presidents Harry S. Truman and Dwight D. Eisenhower as opposing an income tax reduction unless spending is cut.

"Just last week," Bolton said, Truman "again reiterated his stand when he told a group of reporters that he objected to 'cutting taxes until the budget is balanced. I am old fashioned. I believe you should pay in more than you spend.'"

Bolton said a few days ago Eisenhower "took the position that a tax cut is highly desirable but only if the persistent and frightening increase in federal expenditures is halted in its tracks." And former Secretary of the Treasury Humphrey recently echoed this same sentiment.

Those who argue for President Kennedy's position, including many Republicans as well as Democrats, Bolton said, believe that a reduction in taxes eventually would produce greater revenues and cut deficits because of increased business.

"The fallacy of this position, as I see it, lies in the assumption that government expenditures would remain at a constant or decreased level," Boltionsaid.

He added he intends to support an amendment to the tax bill offered by the Republican members of the House Ways and Means Committee.

This would tie the second installment of the tax bill, scheduled to take effect Jan. 1, 1965, to a stipulation that spending and deficits be held at the current levels.

Miss Deringer Honored by School Groups

Miss Ruth Deringer, known for years by students and teachers in Fairfield and New Waterford as Miss "D", was honored for her 39 years of teaching at a joint meeting of the Fairfield and Waterford Parent-Teacher Organizations Monday night at Crestview High School.

Miss Deringer retired last June and became librarian at Akron City Hospital. She had taught English and mathematics and was also librarian in the Fairfield-Waterford District.

She began teaching at Fairfield High School in 1924 when the professional staff consisted of a principal and one other teacher besides Miss Deringer.

Miss Evelyn Albright, first grade teacher, lauded Miss Deringer and traced events that occurred in the district schools since the former Canfield area woman began teaching here.

Roger Bauer, president of the New Waterford PTO, conducted the meeting and Bob Beilhart, president of the Fairfield PTO introduced guest speaker Harmon Zepernick, Salem Civil Defense director.

Miss Deringer, who wrote poetry, earlier was presented a book of selected poems, "Leaves of Gold," by members of the Fairfield-Waterford Education Association.

Those from Iva chapter who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Le-

Mrs. William Kessler of Fairfield Road was elected chairman of the executive committee of the Camp Fire Girls Association at the initial meeting of the group Monday evening at the American Legion Home.

David Borrow was elected vice chairman; Mrs. William Haifley, secretary; George M. Nace Jr., treasurer, and Mrs. Clyde Tschantz, registrar.

Other members of the committee are Atty. Richard Kennedy, Mrs. Robert Cameron, Donald Loch, Mrs. Russell Shaw, Mrs. Shirley Pimer, James Pezzano, Mrs. Theodore Taylor, Mrs. Walter Ewing, Rev. Ralph Green and Mrs. Robert Hahn.

Miss Harriett Dively of Grand Rapids, Mich., director of region nine of Camp Fire Girls, met Wednesday evening with members of the executive committee to present the Camp Fire program, its purposes and regulations.

Earlier in the day she met with the group leaders.

Atty. Richard Kennedy presented the articles of incorporation, and Mrs. Donald Loch read the by-laws set up by the committee composed of Mrs. Loch, Mrs. Richard Kennedy and Mrs. H. D. Lessig. Both were approved.

Wi-Ka-Ya Camp Fire Girls of Lisbon was the name chosen by the committee composed of Mrs. Cameron, Mrs. Taylor and Miss Dively.

This charter executive committee, the governing body of all Camp Fire groups in Lisbon, will meet at least six times a year. The next meeting has been scheduled for Oct. 28.

Mrs. Ray Alexander presided at the meeting Monday evening, as chairman of the nominating committee, composed of Mrs. Shaw and Mrs. Pimer.

LISBON GRANGE WILL meet Thursday evening at 8:30 at the grange hall. All members are urged to attend.

Guests of Mrs. Gertrude McCord of W. Maple St. during the past weekend were her sister, Mrs. Catherine Evans of Niles, and Miss Alta Easterday of Steubenville.

The Marie Lundgren Group held a dinner meeting Sunday evening at the Masonic Temple in Sebring, with Mr. and Mrs. Harry Polen of Sebring serving as the hosts.

Those from Iva chapter who attended were Mr. and Mrs. Leland Adams and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Cope.

Advice on Tests: Keep Cool, Calm

By The Reading Laboratory, Inc.

We'll spend this article on the best ways to review for a test. But before we start, one very important thought: don't get all shook up because a test is coming.

Actually, it's very unproductive to get upset before an exam. You don't score any extra points for a wildly palpitating heart. As a matter of fact, the more anxious you get, the more chance there is of "freezing" on the test. Getting shook just gets you lower marks. And even if you don't do as well as you would like to, the sun will still come up the next day. Really.

So let's assume you're calm, cool, collected and have been doing what these articles have been telling you to do. (If you haven't been studying the way you should have been, we have a special article coming next to help you.)

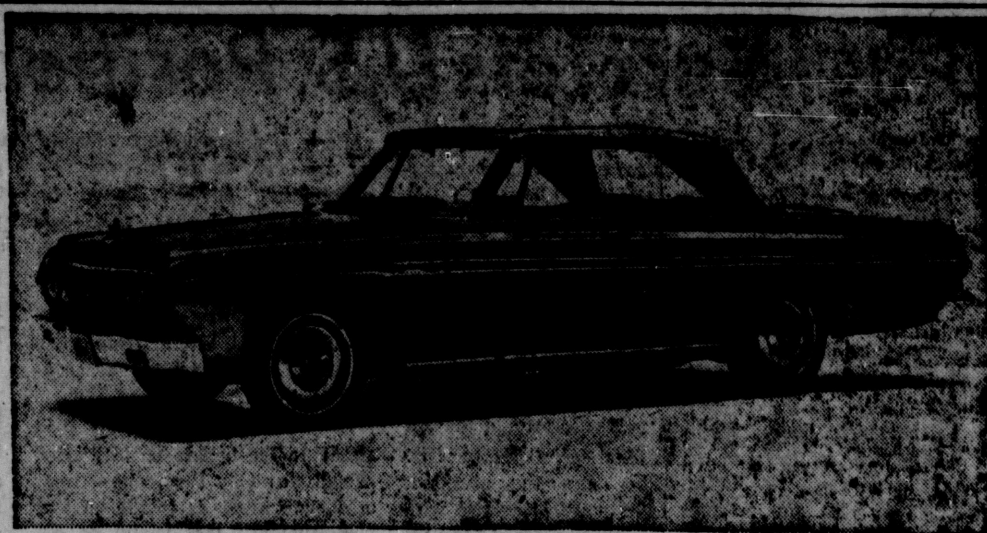

START TO REVIEW FROM your notebook. You've been keeping a general outline of the course in your notebook, so the best thing to do is to read that over. As you come to each major point, stop and think about it. Consider its possible ramifications—everything that it means, everything that it leads to. Try to infer what the next major point should be.

Use your textbook to check anything that's not completely clear from your notes. Or if you like, make a general overview of the chapters that pertain, just to confirm the accuracy of your notes. You won't have every little detail in your notes, but you'll have notes on where they can be found.

At first, don't bother with anything that may require memorization. Begin your reviewing at least a week before the test is scheduled so you can study somewhat leisurely and with a minimum of pressure. Save the memorization until the night before, or at most, two nights before the test. As a rule, memorization doesn't stick for a long time.

REVIEW FOR THE TEST the same way you've been studying. Get the main idea first; learn the general overview before you start to get involved in details. You can afford to miss a detail or two, because if you really understand the main idea of the course, you'll be able to figure out the details—or at least you'll be able to make good guesses.

PLYMOUTH FOR '64—Featuring performance and quality, Plymouth cars for 1964 have increased head room, improved driver vision and a 1½-inch increase in over-all length. They have a fresh styling appeal as shown in this picture of the Sport Fury two-door hardtop. The Plymouth line consists of 26 models in seven body styles. Engines range up to 230 cubic inches. Among the many new features are a Chrysler-engineered four-speed floor-mounted manual transmission, an all-electric push button windshield washer, and an attractive new center console with a "stick shift" type gear selector for the automatic transmission in the Sport Fury. Both the eight and six-cylinder engines have design improvements for increased starting reliability.

For most people, a brain-picking session with four or five others is a good idea—with two cautions: if they turn into bull-sessions, nothing gets accomplished, and secondly, if anyone starts to panic, go off and study by yourself. Panic is contagious.

Finally, the morning of the test, a quick general overview of the notes is in order. It'll refresh your memory and put you in perfect shape.

Make sure you get to class on time for the test, but don't get there early. There'll always be one or two panicky students running around, asking questions and getting everybody else shook.

As a general rule, your aim in preparation is this: get yourself to the point where you can give, off the top of your head, about a 15-minute summary of all the material covered. If you can do that, you can afford to relax; you can be sure you won't have any trouble.

Too Much Risk for Enterprise

Any item in business news becomes an automatic footnote on the story of the free enterprise system's competition with collectivized enterprise.

Douglas Aircraft Co. notified the Federal Aviation Agency it would not bid on a prime contract to develop a supersonic commercial airplane for the United States. It had been proposed that the federal government pay 75 percent of the development cost up to $750 million, with the bidder winning the prime contract to pay the rest.

The "rest," in this instance, might add up to $250 million, perhaps more. Douglas Aircraft, a vital unit in aircraft frame production in the United States said it was unwilling to risk that much. It would be glad to help but not on terms that might injure the company.

The urgency in the matter is the fact a British-French combination already is working on a supersonic commercial airliner, using the backing of its two semi-socialized governments to give it an edge over private enterprise.

Pan American World Airways has ordered 10 of the foreign planes to be built in this collective manner and other U.S. airlines have shown a lively interest in the planes, not scheduled for delivery until late in this decade at the earliest.

The question is whether the United States can compete with this sort of thing even if it puts up 75 percent of the money,

Overdue Death of Me-Too

When the votes had been counted and recounted in November 1960 and some had been shuffled out of sight before an investigation could get under way, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona summed up the Democrats' squeaker victory.

He called it a repeat performance of 1944 and 1948 (the Dewey campaigns) when Eastern Republicans insisted on giving voters a choice between the New Deal and "me too."

He said if Nelson A. Rockefeller couldn't even carry New York state for the Republican ticket, it must signify that his political appeal had turned sour.

Asked if he would be a presidential candidate in 1964, Sen. Goldwater said he wanted to figure in selection of a candidate if only to make sure Gov. Rockefeller, whom he had designated as the symbol of the party's "me-too" liberals, couldn't nail down the nomination.

THUS DIED Republican me-tooism in an almost forgotten interview with a man who read the portents of 1960 correctly. And it is well to remember, too, that Sen. Goldwater then and now is a party regular. He went all-out for Richard Nixon in 1960 and made a fervent appeal on the floor of the Republican convention for party unity. He has raised campaign money for some of the party figures with whom he is in chronic disagreement — Sens. Javits, Case, Kuchel and Cooper. He even has helped to raise money for Gov. Rockefeller.

He is a devotee of the two-party system. But he does not believe the Republican party can bid for votes successfully by promising to do everything the opposition has been doing. He thinks voters want and deserve a choice.

WHETHER he is given the party's 1964 nomination, or someone else leads the campaign, the me-too line will have been ruled out by Sen. Goldwater's influence. No Republican candidate would dare to use it in a campaign against John F. Kennedy.

Sen. Goldwater has done that much for the Republican party if he never does another thing in its behalf. He has restored the two-party system. He has got rid of me-tooism.

Some people stop at nothing when it comes to lending a hand.

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew: Our government's decision to draft everybody else for military service before taking married men makes me wonder if we shouldn't keep national policy in this regard under close watch.

Even if all the good ideas that might be brought to light by concentrating attention on the draft were scuttled by Congress for political reasons, the rest of us would keep our thoughts straight.

Personally, I want to know more about the possibility of killing two birds with the same stone in this matter of the draft.

We have hundreds of thousands of young men with no jobs and no prospects of getting jobs. We are going to spend millions of dollars in feather-brained projects to help them.

It never made any sense to me to be drafting young men who were settled down while these others were trying to find something to do.

THIS EXPLAINS, I suppose, why married men finally have been put at the bottom of the draftee lists. President Kennedy asked one day why they should be taken into military service instead of men who had nothing else to do — and that touched off a reform.

Why not follow through?

Why not do everything to give our idle young men a sense of purpose and a chance to show what they can do. It might take extra training to whip some of them into usable shape, but wouldn't that be cheaper than setting up new facilities under some hare-brained crash program?

If we're going to stay mobilized, we should be thinking about a permanent draft program. We should be reviewing the program continuously, to keep track of changes that need to be made.

I AM NOT advocating that we load the military services, especially the army, with misfits. But I am advocating that we face up to the problem of widespread unemployment among young men of the country who are no longer in school.

Why not do something about them besides writing our hands and adopt resolutions? For a start, why not take a fresh look at arbitrary physical standards that bar from military services many young men perfectly capable of performing modern military duties? Our soldiers are not hand-to-hand fighters. They do not have to be physical marvels. Everybody liked the story about the marine allowed to stay in the corps after he demonstrated that loss of a leg in a previous parachute-jump operation did not bar him from usefulness.

IF WE WENT to war, it would be take-as-take-can, the way it was in the latest war. It makes sense to me in the meantime to interfere as little as possible with people who are settled down.

I think we might be as pleasantly surprised by the results of putting impressionable young men in uniform and giving them something to do as we were with the Civilian Conservation Corps in the Big Depression and World War II GIs who went to school under the "bill of rights."

Your friendly old auntie sends along word not to take a Spanish-American War veteran seriously; that I'm an old fool who thinks he is still with Teddy at San Juan hill. I convey this for what it's worth. Not much, huh?

Regards to all.

COTTON CORNERS UNCLE GEORGE

By DAVID LAWRENCE

For all practical purposes President Kennedy has put on record the most important reservation to the nuclear test-ban treaty that has emerged from any source. He formulated it in a letter to the leaders of both parties in the Senate. He gave his interpretation and his positive assurances on the safeguards that will be maintained. All that is needed now is a formal resolution of the Senate adopted at any time in advance of ratification or even afterwards — taking official notice of all the President's words as an integral factor in the process of ratification of the new treaty.

The United States Senate is empowered to participate in the act of ratification of a treaty. The Constitution says the president "shall have power, by and with the advice and consent of the Senate, to make treaties, provided two thirds of the senators present concur."

There is no agreed-upon formula, however, as to the way by which the "advice" should be given before the treaty is actually signed by the executive branch of the government or even after negotiations with other governments but the Senate from time to time has attached "reservations."

In the case of the treaty proposed to the Senate in 1919 after World War I by President Wilson, a dispute arose as to the kind of "reservations" that would be desirable.

One faction in the Senate spoke in favor of reservations which would have required further negotiations with other signatories to be valid although this view was not shared by the authors of the reservations. Mr. Wilson, however, considered them nullifying our participation in the League of Nations.

THEN CAME what were known as "interpretive reservations," and they were advanced as requiring no alterations of the words in the treaty but as merely explanatory or at least setting forth the view of the United States as a signatory government. But because of the controversy over the extent of the reservations, the treaty failed to win approval.

When President Harding, who had campaigned against the League of Nations, took office, the Senate ratified a new treaty omitting altogether the League of Nations covenant.

The episode represented a setback for international progress, and it may rightly be speculated whether there would have been a second world war if the United States in the 1920s and 1930s had worked closely with the peoples of Europe through the league and economic agencies of cooperation.

Today there is an understandable skepticism about the scope and meaning of the treaty limiting nuclear tests. President Kennedy wisely took note of the doubts and fears among members of the Senate and in the country generally by writing an explicit letter presenting, in effect, an "interpretive reservation."

Let the President's letter be regarded as solely based on the viewpoint of the executive branch of the government the idea of adopting a resolution formally accepting or taking cognizance of the President's explanation of the meaning and purposes as well as limitations of the treaty could really give added prestige to the pact itself.

IT COULD have a sobering influence, too, on those governments which might otherwise be left to conjecture as to the course the United States might pursue in the future. Any joining expression by the legislative and executive branches of the government which is formalized and given conspicuous assent is bound to be helpful hereafter in the field of diplomacy and negotiations.

A resolution, adopted now, moreover, would be binding upon any successor president of the United States and would take its place as a formal document alongside the treaty itself long after Senate Foreign Relations Committee reports, testimony, or the statements made at informal press conferences may have been forgotten.

The President's letter to Senators Mansfield and Dirksen might otherwise be regarded abroad as merely a domestic expedient — as a means of assuring ratification through bipartisan support in the Senate. Actually the letter, in summary, states explicitly:

1. That nuclear testing underground will be continued.

2. That this country will take whatever steps are necessary to safeguard "national security in the event that there should be an abrogation or violation of any treaty provision."

3. That this government "retains the right to resume atmospheric testing forthwith if the Soviet Union should conduct tests in violation of the treaty."

4. That our "facilities for the detection of possible violation of this treaty will be expanded and improved as required to increase our assurance against clandestine violations by others."

5. That the treaty "in no way limits the authority of the commander-in-chief to use nuclear weapons for the defense of the United States and its allies, if a situation should develop requiring such a grave decision."

6. That the United States will take all necessary action if Cuba is "used either directly or indirectly to circumvent or nullify this treaty."

7. That this government "will maintain strategic forces fully ensuring that this nation will continue to be in a position to destroy any aggressor, even after absorbing a first strike by a surprise attack."

8. That the United States will diligently pursue its programs "for the further development of nuclear explosives for peaceful purposes" by tests underground now and in the air when a future treaty may permit it.

Overdue Death of Me-Too

When the votes had been counted and recounted in November 1960 and some had been shuffled out of sight before an investigation could get under way, Sen. Barry M. Goldwater of Arizona summed up the Democrats' squeaker victory.

He called it a repeat performance of 1944 and 1948 (the Dewey campaigns) when Eastern Republicans insisted on giving voters a choice between the New Deal and "me too."

He said if Nelson A. Rockefeller couldn't even carry New York state for the Republican ticket, it must signify that his political appeal had turned sour.

Asked if he would be a presidential candidate in 1964, Sen. Goldwater said he wanted to figure in selection of a candidate if only to make sure Gov. Rockefeller, whom he had designated as the symbol of the party's "me-too" liberals, couldn't nail down the nomination.

THUS DIED Republican me-tooism in an almost forgotten interview with a man who read the portents of 1960 correctly. And it is well to remember, too, that Sen. Goldwater then and now is a party regular.

He went all-out for Richard Nixon in 1960 and made a fervent appeal on the floor of the Republican convention for party unity. He has raised campaign money for some of the party figures with whom he is in chronic disagreement — Sens. Javits, Case, Kuchel and Cooper. He even has helped to raise money for Gov. Rockefeller.

He is a devotee of the two-party system. But he does not believe the Republican party can bid for votes successfully by promising to do everything the opposition has been doing. He thinks voters want and deserve a choice.

WHETHER he is given the party's 1964 nomination, or someone else leads the campaign, the me-too line will have been ruled out by Sen. Goldwater's influence. No Republican candidate would dare to use it in a campaign against John F. Kennedy.

Sen. Goldwater has done that much for the Republican party if he never does another thing in its behalf. He has restored the two-party system. He has got rid of me-tooism.

Cotton Corners

Dear Nephew: Our government's decision to draft everybody else for military service before taking married men makes me wonder if we shouldn't keep national policy in this regard under close watch.

Even if all the good ideas that might be brought to light by concentrating attention on the draft were scuttled by Congress for political reasons, the rest of us would keep our thoughts straight.

Personally, I want to know more about the possibility of killing two birds with the same stone in this matter of the draft.

We have hundreds of thousands of young men with no jobs and no prospects of getting jobs. We are going to spend millions of dollars in feather-brained projects to help them.

It never made any sense to me to be drafting young men who were settled down while these others were trying to find something to do.

THIS EXPLAINS, I suppose, why married men finally have been put at the bottom of the draftee lists. President Kennedy asked one day why they should be taken into military service instead of men who had nothing else to do — and that touched off a reform.

Why not follow through?

Why not do everything to give our idle young men a sense of purpose and a chance to show what they can do. It might take extra training to whip some of them into usable shape, but wouldn't that be cheaper than setting up new facilities under some hare-brained crash program?

If we're going to stay mobilized, we should be thinking about a permanent draft program. We should be reviewing the program continuously, to keep track of changes that need to be made.

I AM NOT advocating that we load the military services, especially the army, with misfits. But I am advocating that we face up to the problem of widespread unemployment among young men of the country who are no longer in school.

Why not do something about them besides writing our hands and adopt resolutions? For a start, why not take a fresh look at arbitrary physical standards that bar from military services many young men perfectly capable of performing modern military duties? Our soldiers are not hand-to-hand fighters. They do not have to be physical marvels. Everybody liked the story about the marine allowed to stay in the corps after he demonstrated that loss of a leg in a previous parachute-jump operation did not bar him from usefulness.

IF WE WENT to war, it would be take-as-take-can, the way it was in the latest war. It makes sense to me in the meantime to interfere as little as possible with people who are settled down.

I think we might be as pleasantly surprised by the results of putting impressionable young men in uniform and giving them something to do as we were with the Civilian Conservation Corps in the Big Depression and World War II GIs who went to school under the "bill of rights."

Your friendly old auntie sends along word not to take a Spanish-American War veteran seriously; that I'm an old fool who thinks he is still with Teddy at San Juan hill. I convey this for what it's worth. Not much, huh?

Regards to all.

Too Much Risk for Enterprise

Any item in business news becomes an automatic footnote on the story of the free enterprise system's competition with collectivized enterprise.

Douglas Aircraft Co. notified the Federal Aviation Agency it would not bid on a prime contract to develop a supersonic commercial airplane for the United States. It had been proposed that the federal government pay 75 percent of the development cost up to $750 million, with the bidder winning the prime contract to pay the rest.

The "rest," in this instance, might add up to $250 million, perhaps more. Douglas Aircraft, a vital unit in aircraft frame production in the United States said it was unwilling to risk that much. It would be glad to help but not on terms that might injure the company.

The urgency in the matter is the fact a British-French combination already is working on a supersonic commercial airliner, using the backing of its two semi-socialized governments to give it an edge over private enterprise.

Pan American World Airways has ordered 10 of the foreign planes to be built in this collective manner and other U.S. airlines have shown a lively interest in the planes, not scheduled for delivery until late in this decade at the earliest.

The question is whether the United States can compete with this sort of thing even if it puts up 75 percent of the money,

Dear N

Educational Leader Proposes Free College For Prospective Teachers

By G. K. McDaniel
AP Education Writer
WASHINGTON (AP) — Dr. James B. Conant, president emeritus of Harvard and an influential commentator on U. S. education, proposes in a new book that America's brightest high school graduates be given a free college education if they become teachers in the public schools.

Conant said each state should provide a program of all-expense loans for high school graduates who plan to become teachers and who are in the top 30 per cent of their graduating class.

The loans, Conant said, should be cancelled after four or five years of teaching in the public schools of that state. He did not specify terms of repayment for those who went into another field or left the state.

This was one of the 27 proposals on the recruitment, preparation and certification of teachers outlined by Conant in his latest book, "The Education of American Teachers" (McGraw-Hill, 275 pp., $5).

The book follows a two-year study that took Conant and his staff to 77 campuses in 22 states. Conant also has written best-selling books on the American high school and junior high school, and was chairman of a national conference which produced a controversial booklet on the teaching of reading.

Unlike his earlier reports on education, which were directed to local school boards and parents, this one is addressed to the 1,150 colleges and universities which now prepare teachers.

The average reader consequently may find it tough slogging through the long and detailed discussions of state requirements for teacher certification and the never-ending war between academic professors and the professors of education.

But Conant comes through loud and clear in the concluding chapter which sums up his proposals, some of which seem certain to stir debate among those charged with training the nation's future teachers.

He suggests, for example, that the present complex and unwieldy steps toward teacher certification should be reduced to just three requirements:

1. A baccalaureate degree from "a legitimate college or university."
2. Evidence of participation in a state-approved practice teaching program.
3. A certificate from the college or university attesting that the inadequately prepared to teach in a designated field or grade level.

This would permit the institutions to devise their own programs of teacher education, free from state requirements of a specified number of courses in such subjects as method of teaching, child psychology, child growth and development, history of education etc.

Conant does not recommend that these courses be abolished only that each institution be free to chart its own path.

"The Education of American Teachers" may also be criticized because Conant does not deal with some of the major problems of teacher education today. These would include the special preparation needed by teachers in big city slums, guidance counselors, curriculum specialists, teachers of the mentally retarded and physically handicapped and teachers in vocational education.

Other Conant proposals include — There should be a large jump in salary when a teacher moves out of probationary status.

— Salary increases should be based on formal work toward an advanced degree, not on casual courses taken in summer school, or in off-duty hours.

School boards or the state should provide leaves of absence with salary for a full-time semester residence at a university to enable teachers to study toward a Master's Degree.

— If small colleges cannot afford to hire three or four professors devoting their time to elementary education, they should cease attempting to prepare teachers for the elementary schools.

— During the probationary period, local school boards should take specific steps to provide new teachers with every possible help, including limited teaching responsibility, "shifting to more experienced teachers those pupils who create problems beyond the ability of the novice to handle effectively," and specialized instruction concerning the community, the neighborhood, and the students he is likely to encounter.

Dr. Conant places heavy stress on the practice teaching program for future teachers. He proposes that only the best teacher be appointed to supervise the teacher candidate, and that "clinical professors" from the colleges and universities be appointed to oversee the program.

He also urges that state authorities develop regulations to insure that a teacher will be assigned only those duties for which he is specifically prepared, and that when a teacher has been certified by one state, his certificate should be accepted as valid in any other state.

Dr. Conant also urges that preparation for a teaching career begin in high school. His proposed high school program for a prospective teacher

Four years of English, 4 years of one foreign language, at least 3 but preferably 4 years of mathematics, 3 years of natural science, 3 years of history and social studies and 2 years of art and music.

Malaysia Breaks With Indonesia

KUALA LUMPUR, Malaysia (AP)—Malaysia today broke diplomatic relations with Indonesia and the Philippines, the government announced.

Shortly before the announcement, screaming, rock-throwing Malay demonstrators stormed the Indonesian Embassy compound, setting fire to one building and smashing windows and furniture.

The riot was retaliation for a similar mob action Monday against the Malaysian Embassy in Jakarta and the Malaysian Consulate in Medan, North Sumatra.

Indonesia bitterly opposes the new Malaysian Federation of Malaysia, Singapore, Sarawak and North Borneo.

More than 1,000 persons took part in the demonstration at Kuala Lumpur. About 200 surged into the embassy grounds.

No one was injured during the 35-minute demonstration.

using Agency of Youngstown. The books in the mobile unit are arranged by subject in racks along both sides of the long trailer.

The general public is invited to visit the trailer at the Senior High School tonight from 6:30 to 8:30 to make selections.

Elementary and junior high students of Salem will have a chance to look at and buy books designed for their age groups when Bloch trailers arrive here the week of Sept. 30. The elementary book trailer will station at the senior high and the junior high books will be at the Junior High School.

Books that stock the racks have been approved by the Mahoning County Board of Education.

MRS. HELEN HEIM, high school librarian, said the agency will also be supplying paperbacks to the school for sale to students, again this year, although the system of distribution this year has been changed. Books may be looked over and purchased in the former conference room adjoining the main library reading room.

About 500 books at a time can be displayed on racks that surround the room. An attendant will be on duty at all times to oversee purchases.

Mrs. Heim believes the paperbacks do encourage reading. Many students, she says, are building their personal libraries from the books because the price tag fits their means.

Paperback books do not lessen the use of hardbound, experts say. Instead with the mammoth influx of the paperbacks, hardbound book use has increased.

Contracts Let by County Commissioners

Columbiana County commissioners Monday awarded the Orwell Printing Co., Orwell, a contract to furnish 15,000 dog license applications at a cost of $275 and 10,000 coin envelopes at a cost of $25. The firm submitted the low bid.

Moore Printing Company of Salem received the contract to furnish 10,000 window envelopes at a cost of $69.

In other business, the commissioners awarded Perry Township trustees a $300 slag grant. They also approved travel allowances for Robert Bycroft of East Palestine to attend the Northeast Ohio Welfare Directors meeting in Ravenna Wednesday and Russell Reichenbach of North Georgetown, dog warden, and Harold McCall of Rogers, assistant dog warden, to attend the northeast Ohio dog wardens meeting in Warren Wednesday.

Defense Chief's Policies Hit by Rep. Carl Vinson

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. Carl Vinson, powerful chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, accused Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara today of seeking to make servicemen into political agents in the fight against racial discrimination.

Vinson, a Georgia Democrat, announced he has introduced legislation that would make it a court-martial offense for military men to use the powers McNamara gave them July 26 in a move to combat any discrimination against servicemen.

"My bill does not deal with segregation or integration," Vinson said. "My bill keeps the military where it belongs—in the business of defending the nation."

In advance of his statement, it was learned today that the Air Force had barred participation by its men and equipment in any public event where racial discrimination is practiced.

McNamara on July 26 authorized base commanders — with prior approval of their service secretaries — to declare off-limits areas where "relentless discrimination persists against Negro servicemen and their families."

In addition, he told the services to issue instructions and regulation "in connection with the leadership responsibility for equal opportunity on and off base."

He also ordered each service to set up a system to monitor progress toward equal opportunity on and off base.

UCIA To Begin Drives for Funds

The United Civic Improvement Assn., organized in August to attempt to secure a physician for the Winona area will sponsor fund drives in surrounding areas the next four weeks.

Representatives of the Guilford Ruritan Club and Guilford Volunteer Fire Department received canvassing supplies Monday evening at the Guilford Fire Station.

Howard Bailey and Robert Brantingham, both of Winona and UCIA board members, outlined the canvass area to the prospective solicitors.

Anyone who donates $1 or more becomes a member of the association with voting privileges. Other UCIA-sponsored meetings to distribute supplies are scheduled as follows: North Georgetown Community Center, Wednesday; Phillips Christian Church, Thursday; New Garden Methodist Church, Monday, and Winona Methodist Church, Sept. 25. All meetings begin at 8 p.m. with UCIA board members in charge.

The United States raised questions about the Cuba shipments but Canada said Russia had made them a necessary condition to the transaction.

U.S. diplomats were not protesting because Washington's own embargo does not forbid selling food or medicines to Cuba.

Traditionally Russia has been an exporter of wheat and Premier Khrushchev even boasted that the Soviet Union's agriculture would overtake that of the United States by 1963.

The explanation from the Kremlin for the big order of wheat was that bad weather had hurt this year's crop.

With The Patients

Mrs. Lula McConner of Willoughby formerly of Salem, mother of Dr. R. J. McConner of 785 Aetna St., is a patient at Lake County Memorial Hospital, West, at Willoughby.

Dean Lautzenheiser, 21, of RD 1, Salem, was treated and released at 9:45 a.m. Monday at Alliance City Hospital for a cut hand received while at work at the Bonfert Glass Company at Alliance.

Ronald Landis, 15, of Beloit, received abrasions of the right arm in a fall from his motor scooter and was treated and released at 9:10 p.m. Monday at the Alliance City Hospital.

I. Melville Wohrley II of RD 1, New Waterford, son of Rev. and Mrs. Wohrley of RD 1, New Waterford, is in fairly good condition in Salem City Hospital where he was admitted at 7 p.m. Monday for treatment of a fracture of the right ankle suffered while practicing football at East Fairfield School.

South Viet Nam.

Normally the question would be aired first in the social committee which deals with human rights, but the Asian-Africans want a direct full-dress assembly debate.

Main attraction of the opening week will be the appearance of President Kennedy who is scheduled to deliver the U.S. policy speech Friday.

It will be Kennedy's first appearance before the assembly since 1961. A diplomatic luncheon has been arranged for him and Canadian Prime Minister Lester B. Pearson by Secretary-General U Thant. Kennedy is not expected to confer privately with Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei A. Gromyko or any other diplomats during his brief stay in New York.

Gromyko, head of the Soviet U.N. delegation, is expected to give his government's policy statement Thursday.

Perry Twp. Trustees Okay Road Projects

Two proposed road projects were approved when the Perry Township trustees met Monday at the Township Hall on Depot Rd.

They are the widening and surfacing of Michigan Blvd. from Route 62 to Route 14 and the resurfacing and grading of Hunt Rd. from Conser Dr. north to Stewart Rd.

The projects will be started as soon as engineering on them is completed.

It was announced that the resurfacing and road sealing program for 1963 has been completed.

Bills amounting to $4,200 were approved to be paid.

Next meeting will be Sept. 30 at the hall.

FORFEITS BOND HERE

Robert B. Leggett, 49, of 10 W. Lincoln Way, Lisbon, forfeited a $15 bond after he was charged Monday afternoon about 2 with failing to stop within the assured clear distance.

City police report Leggett's car struck the rear of an auto driven by Albert Yescavage, 54, of RD 4, Salem, as the latter was making a turn off S. Ellsworth near the Pennsylvania Railroad tracks.

Police headquarters received a report today from Robert Campbell 805 S. Lincoln, who said B-B shots had been fired within the past two weeks through windows of the Howard Schaefer home at 1227 E. 12th St.

Mishaps

by George B. Emeny, 55, of 575 Highland Ave., Salem. Emeny escaped injury.

The patrol said Emeny was going east and Gorman, west when Gorman came over a hillcrest and went off the right side of the road. The Paris motorist lost control of his vehicle, went left of center, struck Emeny's auto on the left side and rolled over.

Gorman was cited for speed excessive for conditions.

A rear end collision at 2:40 p.m. on Route 14, two-tenths of a mile west of Washingtonville resulted only in damage to the cars. The patrol said a car operated by Dale Blagg, 38, of New Springfield was stopped behind a car making a right turn and was hit in the rear by an auto operated by Jack Winters, 21, of Plainfield, N. J. The patrol cited Winters for failing to stop within the assured clear distance.

West Branch Group Plans Fund Drive

A fund drive for new band uniforms was decided upon when West Branch Band Mothers met Monday at the new high school.

Committee in charge is composed of Mrs. Raymond Biddle, Mrs. Wilma Herbert and Mrs. Leeland Glass.

The group will also sell fruit cakes, with Mrs. Albert Hanna and Mrs. Phillip Herold in charge of that project.

Mrs. Ralph Ritchie was named chairman of a benefit, with Mrs. George Bolis, Mrs. Dale Schoeni and Mrs. Donald Sams helping with arrangements.

Members voted to buy 14 new raincoats to match those bought last year and ask that anyone having raincoats or band uniforms from last year return them to the school.

Mrs. Richard Burton was named to take charge of arrangements for tag days in Alliance and Salem.

Next meeting will be Oct. 21, with the lunch committee composed of Mrs. Wade Broomall, Mrs. Kenneth Phillips, Mrs. Stanley Sams and Mrs. Jack Strain.

Seven County Men Leave for Induction

Seven Columbiana County men left this morning for Cleveland for induction into the armed services. They are:

Joseph Henry Chambers, Robert Weldon Burns and Robert Leroy Coy, East Liverpool; Kenneth John Martin Jr., 1278 S. Lundy Ave., Salem; Charles E. Hiner, Columbiana; Oscar August Parish, Salineville RD 1, and James Everett Cochran Jr. Negley.

Fifteen men will be sent next Tuesday to Cleveland for pre-induction physicals in addition to the 14 who left last Tuesday for physicals.

Hints from Heloise

— By Heloise Cruise —

Dear Heloise: I have a left-handed daughter and naturally being right-handed myself it is quite difficult to teach her to do certain things with her hands, such as knitting, sewing, etc. After many exasperating sessions trying to teach her how to do these things left-handed, I saw the light. . . .

If you south-paws will stand facing her and do whatever it is she is trying to learn, he or she will do it the same way with the corresponding hand! (This is the same as facing yourself in a mirror).

Even knitting or the like is reversed.

How I wish I had thought of this when I was teaching her to tie a bow in her shoe laces!

DEAR HELOISE: The other day while baking a cake I ran across an idea to make the layers level when one pokes up in the middle like "Pike's Peak"

After they are baked and completely cool and while still in the pan, take a butcher knife and cut across the top of the cake pan. This will get that "Pike's Peak" off. You can then put the cut sides of the cakes together. The cake won't crack on top either.

The bottom of the cake layers will always be perfectly flat. I do cake decorating and find it is much easier to make a nice looking cake this way.

DEAR HELOISE: Here's an idea I recently dreamed up. . . Have you ever had a silk shantung (or pure silk dress) which gave away at the seams?

This material always seems to pull out if there is a little strain on any seam and I won't mention WHY it is strained. . . .

Turn a shantung dress inside out on the ironing board, press upon the cloth at the seams, then use a strip of press-on tape over each seam where it has pulled out. Be careful not to use too hot an iron. . . .

This really reinforces the seams and does not show on the outside. Also, the seams are flat forevermore!

MARIAN.

DEAR HELOISE: I have a white painted brick fireplace that is the bane of my life.

To remove the smoke stains as a last resort I tried using pure bleach right out of the bottle. It worked just like magic!

MARGO BELL.

The Doctor Says

By Dr. WAYNE G. BRANDSTADT

Wonders Worked With Cleft Palate Cases

An 18-year-old girl writes that she was born with a cleft palate, which was corrected by operation when she was 6. Her problem now is that, although she can swallow normally, she has an unpleasant nasal voice. This is a common occurrence. Cleft palate is found in about one of every 750 babies, and Dr. Brandstadt is the result of a failure in the embryo of the right and left halves of the palate to fuse. This may involve the soft palate alone, or both the hard and soft palates. Although in about 20 per cent of these babies there appears to be a hereditary factor, in the remaining 80 per cent no cause is found.

At Northwestern University in Chicago the Cleft Lip and Palate Institute has been working on this problem for many years. They have found that, as with many other medical problems, the best results are obtained with a team approach.

In this case the team consists of a plastic surgeon, an orthodontist (dentist who straightens the alignment of the teeth), prosthodontist (who makes dental and palatal plates), pedodontist (who has special knowledge of children's dental problems), a speech therapist, and a nose and throat specialist.

THE RESULTS, ALTHOUGH truly miraculous, are not accomplished overnight. They may require 10 years to achieve. Similar teams are now operating in many parts of the country.

Ingenuously contrived speech appliances have been fitted to many of these victims who, like my reader, have had an operation which accomplished only part of the job.

To be able to swallow is very important to a baby's development, but the ability to talk normally is equally important for the development of the adult personality.

All too often the inability to speak plainly is interpreted as a lack of intelligence. Nothing could be further from the truth when cleft palate is the cause.

PLASTIC SURGEONS are now perfecting operations that can correct both the swallowing and the speech disorders, eliminating the need for an artificial palate. Even persons whose deformity was neglected in childhood can be helped after they attain adulthood.

It is, of course, better to correct cleft palates early in childhood. One 4-year-old child, after her palate had been repaired, was greatly helped to improve her speech through the efforts of a patient and understanding mother. This mother had her blow out candles and play games that involved blowing a feather, as well as practice pronouncing difficult words properly.

If your child has a cleft palate, this will be a handicap only if you let it be.

Q—My 4-year-old granddaughter has asthma. Would her diet have anything to do with the severity of her attacks? If so, what kind of food should be kept from her?

A—Asthma has many causes, which include inhalants such as animal dandruff, pollens, house dust and, in some persons, foods. Only by careful studies can the exact cause be determined. If the cause is an inhalant the diet will not influence it. If it is a food, she will have to avoid any preparation that contains the offending ingredient.

Program Is Held By Church Women

The members of the Women's Society of Christian Service of the Bunker Hill Methodist Church met in the church Thursday evening, with Mrs. Harry Smith conducting the worship service.

The business session was in charge of the president, Mrs. Alfred Martig, when plans were made to attend the W.S.C.S. district meeting in East Palestine Wednesday. The program was presented by Mrs. John King. Lunch was served by Mrs. Lee Greenamyer and Mrs. Kenneth Heston.

Mrs. Philip Carl offered the closing prayer. The next meeting will be held in the church, the evening of Oct. 10, with Mrs. Martha Naylor conducting the worship and Mrs. John Howells, the program. Mrs. Noble Greenamyer and Mrs. Charles Conkle will be hostesses.

Steam Engine Assn. Plans Exhibition

The Tri-State Historical Steam Engine Association Inc., will hold its seventh annual exhibition at the Dean Fulerton farm, Route 18 between Hickory and Burgettstown, Pa., Sept. 20-21. Steam traction engines will be on display and daily machinery exhibitions are scheduled.

Friday night there will be an open pony pulling contest, both light and heavy classes, and Saturday night feature a public square dance, according to Earl Hamilton, Lisbon Rd., a local member of the association.

McNamara: Toughest Man To Hold Defense Position

WASHINGTON (AP)—Robert S. and that "their advice is absolutely essential."

McNamara is probably the toughest man ever to hold the demanding job of secretary of defense—and his toughness has generated resentment among some military leaders.

They have learned, sometimes painfully, that he means to have things done his way.

Although McNamara has his admirers in uniform, there are those who question whether he hasn't carried the acknowledged principle of civilian control too far—and hasn't, in the process, downgraded the importance of professional military judgment.

Adm. George W. Anderson, denied a second term as chief of naval operations, gave voice to these views recently when he warned against "discrediting the voices of dissent, especially the dissent of military men speaking on subjects they know."

Despite official denials, it is believed that Anderson's differences with McNamara on the TFX fighter plane development sped him into military retirement. Anderson soon will leave for Portugal as U.S. ambassador.

McNamara has insisted, in reply to criticism, that he consults the military chiefs more than did any previous defense secretary. He told a Senate committee recently he had turned to the chiefs on literally hundreds of occasions

Army chief of staff.

Now, with many of Taylor's ideas adopted by the Kennedy administration, he is back in the Pentagon at the very top of the military heap—as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

PARK OWNER DIES

CANTON, Ohio (AP)—Carl A. Sinclair, 70, owner and general manager of Meyers Lake Park, Inc., and Moonlight Ballroom, died after suffering a heart attack Monday.

Not Angry, Candid

By HAL BOYLE

NEW YORK (AP) — "I've been called an angry, middle-aged man," said Irwin Shaw, lighting up a four-bit cigar.

"But I don't feel angry. I just feel candid."

At 50, Shaw has made his first real change of profession since he started banging away at the typewriter when he was 13. He became a producer in self-defense after a long on-man war against Hollywood moguls who tampered with his screenplays. His first production is "In the French Style," which he wrote himself.

"I also produced it myself to be sure that the mice didn't nibble away at the script," he said.

"Film people get very careless of a script if the author isn't around, or if he has no authority. Everybody can be a writer once he has a script already written that he can change."

Shaw said he felt like a stranger in the big city where he first won fame in the 1930s.

"I don't like cities any more," he said. "They wear me down. The city is a vast centrifuge whirling faster than the speed of sound. Everything is supersonic."

"But I remember those days—the 1930s—with a great fondness. They were years of ferment and political hopefulness."

"Everybody was insecure—so everybody felt secure. There wasn't so much money around, so nobody cared too much about it. They didn't worry about their old age as they do now. And they seemed more generous then."

It was in 1936 that Shaw wrote his first hit play, "Bury the Dead." In a single week during that period, he also turned out two tales for the New Yorker magazine that gained him a reputation as a master of the short story. He has written several more plays, a number of novels—notably "The Young Lions"—and 15 or 20 film scripts, most of which he doesn't care to remember.

At present he has a travel book and another collection of short stories of the fire.

Shaw is a man of tremendous gusto, and to him the meaning of life boils down to one word—adventure.

Original settlers of Jamestown, Va., were brought on the vessels Susan Constant, God Speed and Discovery.

Salem To Entertain Big Lorain Team Friday Night

Steelmen Boast Size At Tackle

Salem Coaches Pick Outstanding Players

Coaches' dreams of a successful football season are often realized if they have a couple of big tacklers around which they can build their teams.

Lorain, Salem's opponent for Friday at Reilly Stadium, has four such linemen, the smallest weighing 220 pounds.

Coach Charles Urbanic has nine letters on his unit. He said, "We have more size than we have ever had, and if our juniors will pay the price, we will have a good year."

He pointed out that Lorain is the smallest of two high schools in the city, and the Steelmen are considered to have only a fair team.

AFTER OBSERVING movies of the Ravens contest, Coach Don Clarico and his staff chose George Begalla, senior fullback, as the outstanding offensive back.

The group also selected Bob Mellinger as the top defensive back. Howard Lambert was rated the best defensive lineman, and Dennis Everhart received a similar award as offensive lineman.

All four are now members of the 110-Per Cent Club which was initiated following the Cleveland Lincoln contest.

Salem hit the practice field yesterday in preparation for Lorain.

LORAIN'S TACKLES include Bob Melholko, 280-lb. junior; Jacob Street, 240-lb. junior; John Sulzpujo, 220-lb. junior; and 230-lb. John Szabo, senior.

Bruce Bond, 205-lb. senior, was shifted from a tackle at the start of the campaign by Coach Urbanic. He is a member of an all senior backfield.

Other members of that unit include halfbacks George Maxwell and Bill Lance, who scale 160 and 165 lbs., respectively. Jim James is a 170-lb. quarterback who, according to Urbanic, is a good runner and passer.

James' top receiver is senior Ken Kohlmeier, 160-lb. athlete. At center for the Steelmen will be Charles Little, 200-lb. senior.

Bartholou Makes Ace At Flying B Course

Glen Bartholou of RD 3 made a hole-in-one at Flying B Course recently. He made his ace on the No. 3, 131-yard hole, using a five iron. It was the fourth made at the golf site this season.

Bartholou who began playing golf for the first time last May competes in the Deming League. He finished with a 60 for the nine holes.

William Heddleson, Carl Shinn and John Fischrup of Salem were members of a foursome playing the course with Bartholou.

Browns' Coach Warns Squad Of Letdown

CLEELAND (AP) — "I know Dallas will be high and we must fight that tendency to let down after winning," says Cleveland Browns coach Blanton Collier.

In reviewing the films of the Browns' 37-14 triumph over Washington Sunday, Collier said the pictures showed the offensive line did a good job.

"There were some breakdowns, but the line did some real fine things, too," he said. "On that 80-yard run off the flip, Jim Brown had four good blocks to get started."

"It was almost like the play on paper. Rich Kreitling also threw a good block downfield."

Collier said Brown took advantage of a blitz by the Redskins on his 10-yard left end sweep for a touchdown. "That was what we call an option sweep," he explained. "The end blocked the blitzer in and Jim went outside. Under some conditions, Jim would go inside and the line backer would be moved out."

Indians Face Yanks Tonight

CLEVELAND (AP)—Pride will be about all that's at stake tonight when the American League champion New York Yankees invade Municipal Stadium for a single game with the Cleveland Indians.

New York Manager Ralph Houk says Mickey Mantle will be in the starting lineup, although outfielders Roger Maris and Tom Tresh will not play at all. Maris is in New York where he is to undergo examination for pains in his back. Tresh has a strained right hand.

Pedro Ramos (8-8) will be pitted against the Yankee's fine young southpaw, Al Downing (12-4).

Houk reports Mantle's sore knee is coming along fine and that he ran smoothly in Minneapolis the last few days.

Using Mantle tonight is part of Houk's strategy of giving his regulars just enough work to keep them sharp for the World Series three weeks from now.

Dodgers Score Twice In 9th To Knock Off Cardinals 3-1

By MIKE RATHET Associated Press Sports Writer "They've just got to fold," said Leo Durocher, "they've been so hot, they've just got to."

Is the outspoken Los Angeles coach right, or can the St. Louis Cardinals bounce back from a 3-1 defeat by the National League-leading Dodgers Monday night in the opener of the three-game showdown that may decide the pennant winner?

That was the question today as the Cardinals made ready for round No. 2—against Dodger ace Sandy Koufax, 23-5. Starting for St. Louis will be Curt Simmons, 15-7.

Leo made his comment before the game, with the Cardinals heading into the series at home only one game back of the Dodgers after rolling to 10 consecutive victories and 19 in 20 games.

The tense game moved into the ninth tied 1-1 before the Dodgers put together a double by Ron Fairly, a key single by Willie Davis and an error for the two runs that gave them the victory and a two-game lead over the Cardinals.

Now, even if the Cardinals take the two remaining games the Dodgers will be in first place.

"I am not the least bit pessimistic," said St. Louis Manager Johnny Keane. "We've got two more with 'em. This pennant race is a long way from being over yet."

While they were playing the big one at St. Louis, two other games were played in the National League.

Bob Veale pitched a two-hitter and Bill Mazeroski drove in the game's only run with a single in the last of the ninth as Pittsburgh edged the Chicago Cubs 1-0.

Juan Marichal won his 23rd game with a six-hitter and Orlando Cepeda hit a decisive homer to give San Francisco a 4-3 victory over Milwaukee.

The only American League game—Chicago at Washington—was rained out.

The Dodgers scored first against the Cardinals, getting to Ernie Broglio for a run in the sixth on a double by Maury Wills, his steal of third and a single by Tommy Davis.

Stan Musial's homer—one of only three hits off Dodger starter Johnny Podres—tied it in the seventh.

In the eighth, with Broglio tiring, the Cardinal manager sent in a pinch hitter, then called on Bobby Shantz to hold the Dodgers in the ninth.

Ron Fairly lashed Shantz' first pitch for a double. Then Davis, who was hitting only .22 going into the game but had already collected two hits and stolen two bases, lined a single to right field. Fairly slid across the plate with the lead run on a close play.

A throwing error by Julian Javier let in the other run.

Defensive Back Not To Attend Game Sunday

Phils' Burroughs Is Suspended By NFL Commissioner Rozelle

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—A sorry Don Burroughs, the Philadelphia Eagles' defensive back, will not be present at Sunday's National Football League game here against the St. Louis Cardinals because of a disciplinary order from NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle.

Rozelle not only barred Burroughs from the game as the result of the player's strenuous protests Sunday against a decision in the Eagles-Pittsburgh Steelers' or showed the official. In the confusion a second official (referee Bill Downes) was struck across the face, apparently inadvertently by Burroughs before the player ran to his dressing room."

Burroughs apologized to the officials.

"I was wrong—I did not mean to go as far as I did in expressing my feelings at the officials' call," he said.

He had said earlier he was expecting a fine for the vehemence of his objections to the ruling by Tehan on a forward pass from the Steelers' Ed Brown to Preston Carpenter in the last minute of the game.

Carpenter was tackled by Jimmy Carr and dropped the ball, and Burroughs fell on it. Tehan called it a completed pass and said the fumble and recovery did not count as he had whistled the ball dead.

Wants Crack At Clay, Then Liston

Machen Knocks Out Wilson In 6th Of Comeback Fight

By BOB MYERS Associated Press Sports Writer

SANTA MONICA, Calif. (AP)—Heavyweight Eddie Machen, whose bright boxing career seemed at an end a year ago from a mental and financial breakdown, was well launched on his comeback today with visions of fighting Cassius Clay and eventually heavyweight champion Sonny Liston.

Machen, despite his long layoff, was fairly sharp and weighed a trim 196. Wilson scaled 206.

The 31-year-old Machen, who now lives in Beverly Hills and has a money backer in well-to-do Walter Minskoff, said he was nervous before this fight.

"I think I was more tense than in any fight in my life because of all the trouble and everything," Machen explained.

His next fight probably will be with Alono Johnson of Pittsburgh around Oct. 12. Wilson was a late substitute for Johnson, who bowed out because of a flu attack.

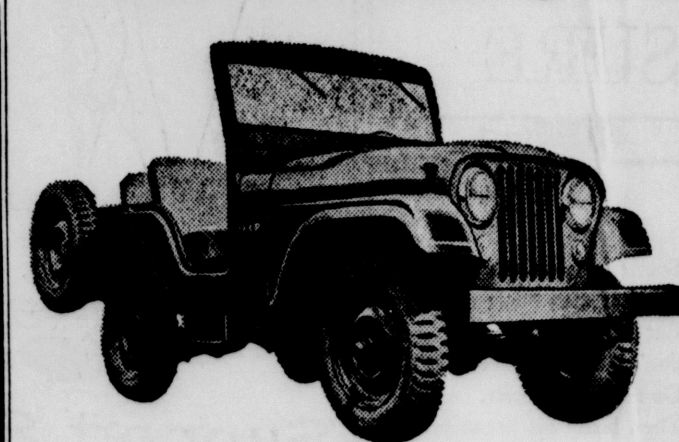

Johnson was at ringside.

Machen said he would like to fight Clay as soon as possible and then try Liston again. Machen is the only fighter to last 12 rounds with Liston. They boxed in 1960 in Seattle.

Machen, from the outset, was the aggressor, but Wilson stood toe-to-toe with him in an exciting fifth round. Wilson was knocked partly off balance and took a mandatory eight. In the sixth Machen finally hammered him down in a neutral corner and he took the 10 count on one knee from referee Jimmy Wilson.

50-Lap Amateur Title Race Set For Canfield

A big 50-lap season championship duel for the amateurs will feature stock car racing at Canfield Speedway next Saturday night.

Some 80 amateurs are expected to be on hand for the title duel, but only the fastest 25 qualifiers will be eligible.

Jerry Kavinsky of Youngstown will rate as one of the favorites, along with the current point leader Bill Larson of Youngstown.

The three Simcox brothers are entered, Art, John and Bill, along with the Slocum brothers, Jim and Joe of Salem, and the Teters brothers Foster and Earl of Youngstown.

A regular program of late models will feature a 25-lap duel with Jim Bickerstaff of Mineral Ridge and Bill Forney of Youngstown heading the classy field.

Rainbow Girls To Have Columbiana Initiation

COLUMBIANA—Regular meeting and initiation of Columbiana Assembly of Order of Rainbow for girls will be held at 10 a.m. Saturday at the Masonic Temple.

A special invitation is being extended to all members of the Order of Eastern Star Masonic Lodge to attend. Miss Marcia Knotts will preside as worthy adviser. MRS. WILLIAM EVERSOLE will be hostess to the Fifth Wheel Club at her home at 128 S. Middle St. at 8 tonight. Election of officers will be featured. All women who have had two years' membership in the Welcome Wagon Newcomer's Club are also invited to attend.

Installation of officers will be held during the Philo Class meeting at 8 p.m. Thursday in the Methodist Church parlor. Committee for the meeting consists of Mrs. Raymond Mackall, chairman, Mrs. Gordon Warner and Mrs. James Dean. Mrs. Willard Hetric will have devotions. Members attending are to bring gifts for a special event.

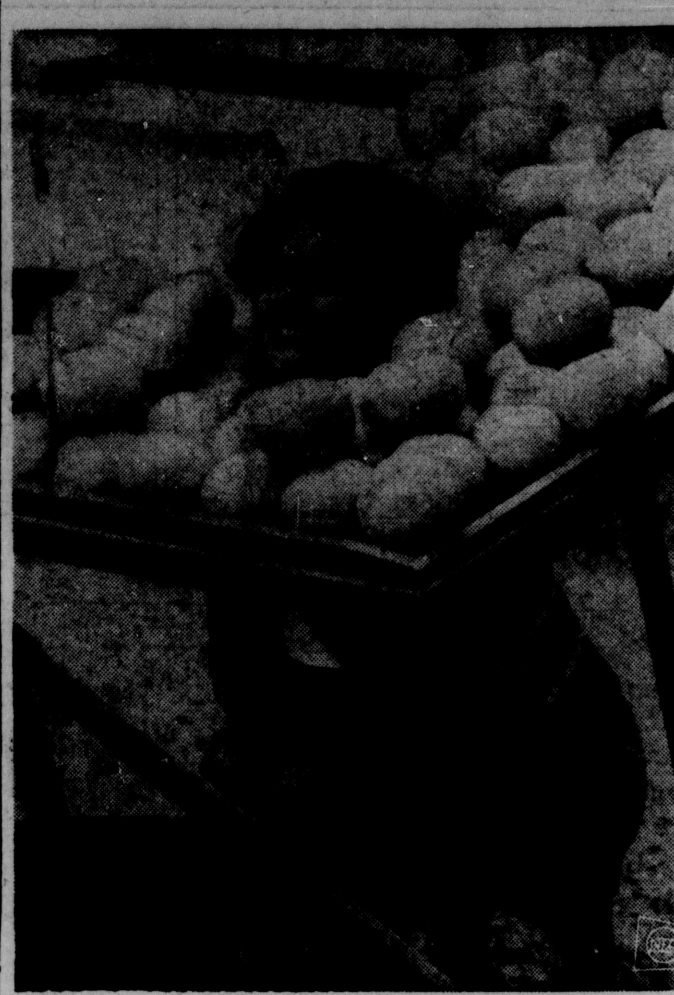

EPSILON SIGMA ALPHA sorority will meet at the home of Mrs. Milton Fiston of 502 S. Main St. at 8 p.m. Wednesday. Co-hostess is Mrs. Frank Tevis. An educational program entitled "England" will follow the meeting.

A combined meeting of all units of the Columbiana County Council of the American Legion Auxiliary has been scheduled for 8 tonight in the Post Home. Regular meeting will be at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Post Home. A musical program will be presented. Both meetings are open to the public.

DR. ROWLAND DIES CLEVELAND (AP)—Dr. Vernon C. Rowland, 80, former president of the Cleveland Academy of Medicine and a founder and former head of St. Luke's Hospital, died Monday.

Dr. Rowland, a native of Canton and a graduate of Ohio Wesleyan University and the Western Reserve University School of Medicine, had been active in the medical profession until January. He was a gastroenterologist, specializing in problems of the digestive system.

Man Is Sentenced For Contributing

LISBON — An East Liverpool man was sentenced to one year in the county jail Monday afternoon by Juvenile Judge Louis Tobin for contributing to the delinquency of his 5-month-old child. Artie Bates received a suspension of nine months of the sentence suspended on condition that he refrain from using intoxicants, get and keep steady employment and support his child.

Bates was cited for allegedly throwing his son on the floor twice on Sept. 3 in a family argument at the home of a neighbor. The baby was taken to the East Liverpool City Hospital and later was placed with the Columbiana County Welfare Department. A report from the hospital showed that the baby suffered injuries to the shoulder.

SPEAKS AT YOUNGSTOWN

YOUNGSTOWN, Ohio (AP) — The Rev. A. D. King is to speak at a freedom rally here tonight, substituting for his brother, the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr., a top Negro leader who remained in Birmingham, Ala., during the racial unrest in that city.

But Dr. King, president of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, and A. Philip Randolph, president of the Brotherhood of Sleeping Car Porters, are scheduled to address a rally in Cleveland's Cory's Methodist Church Wednesday night.

SILENT VIGIL HELD

OBERLIN, Ohio (AP)—Students at Oberlin College were scheduled to hold a 15 minute silent vigil at noon today to protest a church bombing in Birmingham, Ala., Sunday which killed four Negro girls.

About 300 University of Illinois students staged a similar demonstration Monday on the steps of the auditorium building in Champaign, Ill. Leaders said similar vigils are expected to be held at several schools throughout the country.

PLEADS INNOCENT

VAN WERT, Ohio (AP)—Mrs. Susan Jane Creech, 21, pleaded innocent to a charge of second-degree murder at her arraignment Monday and was bound over to the an Wert County grand jury. Prosecutor Kenneth Koch said Mrs. Creech, the mother of a 2-year-old child, admitted shooting Robert Grimes, 23, last Saturday shortly after they moved here from Fort Wayne, Ind.

FORFEIT BONDS IN LISBON

LISBON — John R. Fanara, 27, and Steve M. Zapotosky, 22, both of Cleveland, each forfeited a $15 bond Monday in County Judge James L. MacDonald's court when they failed to appear after being cited for speeding by the State Highway Patrol.

KILLED IN CRASH

BATAVIA, Ohio (AP) — A two-car collision at an east Clermont County road junction took the life Monday of Clarence E. Fitchel, 76, of Blanchester. Alvin Sager, 56, of Blanchester, the other driver, was charged with failure to yield to a stop sign the Highway Patrol said.

'The Outer Limits' Made Debut Monday

By CYNTHIA LOWRY AP Television-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP)—It has been obvious for some time that evening television lacks one type of entertainment program. Well, we got it Monday night—a horror show.

The program was the first of a new series, "The Outer Limits" heralded as science fiction and complete with a monster — a chrome-plated three-fingered thing from a distant planet somehow pulled down by radio beams to Southern California.

It was very reminiscent of those jolly old scary movies—but with modern refinements. The creature from outer space lumbered around like a Frankenstein monster. It was preceded by gale winds. It dispatched enemies with electrical charges. He spoke and understood English, monster style.

Because the series comes at an early evening hour (7:30-8:30 EDT), it apparently is aimed at a youthful audience. It's the sort of nonsense that is likely to be boring to the post-21 viewers.

"Breaking Point," a new dramatic series dealing with people in need of psychiatric help, took over the ABC channel for a late evening hour (10-11 EDT).

The program seemed clinical, unnecessarily painful and failed to prove anything very much. But, apparently, there's a large and eager audience for this type of diversion.

ABC continues to pour its new programs and its old programs with fresh stories into the network channel.

Tonight's new entries are two. "The Greatest Show on Earth" is a dramatic series with a circus background starring Jack Palance as the owner of the outfit (9-10 EDT). "The Fugitive," (10-11) recounts the adventures of an innocent hunted man (David Janssen) who is trying to find the murderer of his wife, the crime for which he has been convicted.

"Combat" returns for another season of winning the grim war in Normandy (7:30-8:30) and "McHale's Navy" sails back to continue the comedy conflict in the Pacific (8:30-9).

Soviet-Chinese Split May Be Good or May Be Bad for U.S.

By JAMES MARLOW Associated Press News Analyst

WASHINGTON (AP) — About the only consolation for President Kennedy in these troubled days at home and abroad is that Soviet Premier Khrushchev has climbed down off his back for a while.

Khrushchev's time is taken up with Red China, while Kennedy tries to cope with racial troubles in this country, with getting Senate approval of a limited nuclear test-ban treaty, and with restoring sense and order in South Vietnam.

The Soviets have treated the United States almost amiably, compared with the past, ever since this country and Britain signed the test-ban agreement with the Soviet Union in Moscow Aug. 5.

They have even been restrained about American racial disorders, although that's a subject made to measure for Communist propaganda. There can be any number of guesses about the reasons.

The Russians don't want to give Senate opponents of the treaty extra ammunition before the Senate approves or the Russians want a new era of better relations with this country because of their disaster with the Chinese.

The completely skeptical probably see in this Russian amiability and the test-ban agreement itself a cynical scheme to hypnotize the West into lowering its guard by giving it a false sense of peace and security.

But without any of those reasons there is another explanation for the Soviets' recently muted tones toward the West: the Soviet Union has its hands full with its former Chinese ally.

Since Aug. 5 the Soviet and Chinese attacks on each other—the Chinese denounced the test ban—have become as hysterical as Soviet-Chinese attacks on the West used to be.

This Russian-Chinese split, which would be plenty excuse for the Soviet Union to switch its major attention from West to East, is perhaps the greatest break for the Western world since the war.

The two giant Communist allies, working together, had the resources for endless mischief and perhaps unimaginable gains in every corner and continent on earth.

As rivals they may well cancel out their ambition to communize the world although it seems certain Red China will never stop, short of military defeat, trying to take over at least all of Asia.

Nevertheless, improved Russian-Western relations have their own dangers for the Western Allies: the possibility that, feeling the Soviet menace has slackened, they will lose their sense of interdependence and also split up.

French President Charles de Gaulle, consciously or not, may be reflecting exactly such a state of mind in his several acts of contrary and painful individualism since the beginning of this year.

When the danger from the Soviet Union seemed greater than it does now, De Gaulle was far less intransigent and unpredictable. He began irritating this country sorely only after the United States forced Khrushchev to back down on his Cuba missiles.

After that crisis subsided State Department people here began developing a kind of diplomatic euphoria with predictions that winds of change were sweeping the world although at that time last fall there wasn't a breeze blowing.

They couldn't and didn't foresee that by January De Gaulle would have messed up the Common Market by refusing to let Britain in or that by August there would be a test-ban agreement, signed with the Soviet Union.

For their part, the Russians, at this moment, can hardly know where they are or where they are

Cars with Super Shell sweep 220-yard dash

Unique acceleration test shows how one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients works to give you quick power

Starting line. Ten brand-new Chevrolets are being readied for a 220-yard dash. This test was recently run to demonstrate how Super Shell works to give you quick power. Drivers were professionals. Test conditions for all cars were identical. Even engine temperatures were carefully equalized. The only difference was in fuel. The five dark cars used a gasoline we blended exactly like Super Shell, but without one of Super Shell's 9 working ingredients—without Pentane mix, an ingredient that helps deliver quick power. The five white cars used Super Shell with Pentane mix—the same Super Shell gasoline you can get at Shell stations. On signal, drivers floored accelerators and raced off at full throttle.

Finish line. All five white cars on Super Shell with Pentane mix beat all five dark cars without Super Shell's quick-power ingredient. A telling demonstration of Super Shell's ability to help you get quick power.

Besides Pentane mix, Super Shell contains TCP—for power, mileage, longer plug life. Anti-knock mix—to fight all kinds of engine knock. Alkylate—to control high-speed knock. "Cat-cracked" gasoline—for smooth power. Butane—for fast starts. Anti-icer added in cold weather. Gum preventive—to keep carburetors clean inside. Platformate—for extra mileage. Altogether, 9 working ingredients to make your car work better. Stop at the clean white Super Shell pump.

*Trademark for Shell's gasoline additive for ignition control. Gasoline containing TCP is covered by U.S. Patent 2889212.
